

Jaye N. Shamsiddeen, a career professional with Michigan Rehabilitation Services (MRS), is the current state director of MRS.

Jaye began state government employment as a disability examiner with the Social Security Administration in 1974. She has been with MRS since 1976, when she began her rehabilitation career as a counselor. She has held the positions of unit leader, staff development supervisor, casework consultant, deputy division director, division director, and deputy state director. As division director, Jaye was responsible for statewide business services, policy development, the small business enterprises initiative, the case service budget, and five district offices.

Jaye is a graduate of Michigan State University (MSU), with a major in psychology. She has a master's degree in counseling and guidance, also from MSU.